

GET A FLOOD OF PETITIONS

Legislators Are Hearing from Friends of the Option Law.

MANY DEMAND THAT THE OLD LAW STAND

Members of House May Get Together to Make New Law Strong.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 17.—Petitions and personal letters are pouring into members of the house who come from temperance counties with reference to liquor legislation. A number of these demand that the county option law shall not be repealed while others merely ask the representatives to "do the best they can," and if they cannot prevent the option law from being amended, then make the substitute as strong as possible.

There was considerable talk about the house today among those democratic members who have received these temperance letters to get together and make a united effort to strengthen any liquor bill before it comes to them for passage.

Recall Bill Has Friends.

The Shively recall bill, which was re-introduced in the legislature yesterday in a meeting with approval among members, it is said, the bill in its amended form applies only to incorporated cities and towns.

It is claimed for the bill that it would exercise a restraining influence on a city official, making him cautious in proceeding in any manner that might subject him to a recall election, and that because of this restraining influence such elections would be infrequent.

The thirty democratic senators in the Indiana legislature at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon cast their votes for John W. Kern for the United States senate. The twenty republicans cast their ballots for Albert J. Beveridge, and a half of the speakership, in which Mr. Kern and Senator Beveridge were ex-tolled by party members.

The house was in session less than half an hour, adjourning shortly before 11 to hear the speeches and witness the balloting on the senatehip in the senate chamber. No business was done by the representatives except to receive a few communications of minor importance.

None of the Senate.

Senator E. B. Stotzburger, of New Albany, called up for the third reading in the senate, shortly after it convened, his bill providing for the transfer of all life prisoners from the Jeffersonville reformatory to the state prison at Michigan City. The bill was not amended, and when placed on its passage received a unanimous vote.

The proposed amendment to the federal legislation providing for an income tax was ratified in the senate by the adoption of the Stotzburger resolution endorsing it, with but one dissenting vote—that of Abram Hall-jack of Rensselaer.

The Proctor bill changing the open season for shooting quail and grouse was transferred from the committee on judiciary to the committee on criminal code. Senator Curtis' bill increasing the salary of "struck" jurors from $1.25 to $3.50 a day was reported with the recommendation that it be amended so as to read $2.00 a day. The amendment was adopted and the committee reported favorably on its passage.

Senator Greenwell's bill providing for the fixing of the salary of county auditors in counties having a population of from 5,000 to 150,000 has been withdrawn, and a new bill will be drafted on the same subject. Senator Greenwell seeks to fix the salary of the auditor of Allen county at $10,000 a year.

The senate committee on public health favors the passage of the Lamont bill prohibiting public exhibitions of hypnotism, and the Greenwell measure regulating cold storage of food products.

BROKEN NECK IS FULLY REUNITED

Remarkable Case of Mending is Reported from New Orleans.

BOY WELL AS EVER

New Orleans, Jan. 17.—One of the most remarkable cases on record of a recovery from a broken neck was announced completed at the charity hospital today when a plaster cast was removed from the neck of Philip Hoffman, a boy 14 years old, and an x-ray photograph showed the vertebrae to have knitted perfectly.

Last summer the boy, after witnessing a circus, attempted to turn a backward somersault, as he had seen the acrobats do. He landed on his neck, breaking the second and third cervical vertebrae.

A plaster cast was placed about the neck after the vertebrae had been "set," and the lad has been quarantined every minute since to prevent him breaking the cast. When it was taken off, young Hoffman was permitted to turn his head and nod. He suffered no pain and is apparently as sound and well as before the accident.

NEW BANKING BILL IS SHOWN

Aldrich Measure to Make a More Elastic Currency Made Public.

HAS RESERVE ASSOCIATION

Details of Plan Worked Out to Give Country the Benefit.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Senator Nelson W. Aldrich's long awaited "plan for the revision of the national banking legislation," as he himself calls it, was made public today. It does not contemplate the establishment of a central bank. It is so far from what most people have expected Mr. Aldrich to propose, that to those who have not been in his confidence it may come as a notable surprise.

The plan was submitted today to the national monetary commission at a meeting called for the purpose, but Senator Aldrich was not present. He was speeding to the southland on a compulsory search for health. His communication was presented to the commission by the vice chairman, Representative Vreeland, of New York.

Far from recommending the institution of a central bank Mr. Aldrich expressly disclaims belief in it as calculated to meet the needs of the situation.

Reserve Association.

What Mr. Aldrich does propose is the establishment of the "Reserve Association of America," representing what might be called a federation of local associations formed by national banks. Those in the confidence of Mr. Aldrich drew particular attention to the pains which they said he had taken to provide against control of the association by anybody. On this point in his letter to the commission he says he believes the association, organized as he proposes, could not be "controlled by ambitious monetary interests or dominated by political influence."

These seem to be the essentials of the plan.

At the bottom local organizations of representatives of banks formed by no less than ten banks each, each bank holding stock in the association in proportion to its capital.

Directors elected by those to be board of "branch" associations, one branch for each of fifteen financial districts into which the United States would be divided. Each "branch" board would include a certain proportion of men not bankers, but representing industrial, agricultural, commercial and other interests.

Branches Elect Directors.

The "branches" in turn would elect to the reserve association proper, directors, fifty-five in all. There would also be six ex-officio members of this board, namely, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of commerce

ODD FUNERAL RITES.

Roumanians Hold Service Over Remains of Nick LeMeir.

After Rev. E. W. Averill, of Trinity Episcopal church, had conducted brief funeral services Monday afternoon over the remains of Nick LeMeir, who was shot down by an Italian in this city Saturday afternoon, the Roumanian society in the Rolling Mill district took charge and conducted its odd funeral rites.

The service was held in the society's club room on Graeter street, and the room was decorated with red and white ribbons and artificial flowers. At the head of the casket stood a small tree, upon the branches of which were impaled many apples. Near the close of the service the casket, with the tree and a white cross, were taken out of doors. The casket was stood upon its end, and Photographer Sterry took a photograph of the corpse, with the funeral trappings and the grouped members of the lodge. In accordance with custom this photograph will be sent to relatives of the dead man in Roumania. The interment occurred at Lindenwood.

CANNON LEGACY A MYTH.

Was Just a Come-on and the Hot Touch Has Been Made.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 17.—The legacy left Speaker Cannon by a woman who died in India some time ago is probably a myth after all. This morning a letter was received by E. X. Lesquire, the speaker's son-in-law, asking for a remittance of $40 to file the first papers in the case. This will be declined and the incident will probably end here.

Since the news of the alleged legacy became public Speaker Cannon and members of his family have received hundreds of letters asking for money.

SNOW AT HUNTINGTON.

Interurban Cars Came in From West Heavily Laden.

Huntington had a snow fall of about four inches Monday night, while in this city but twenty-five miles away, the earth is entirely devoid of snow. The interurban cars which came in from the west today were heavily laden with snow, and its appearance here where no snow had fallen excited much comment. The snowfall extended but a few miles east of Huntington.

Mrs. W. S. O'Rourke is very ill from an attack of la grippe.

ELECTED UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM INDIANA.

HON. JOHN WORTH KERN.

CHAFFEUR TELLS OF THE JOY RIDES

He Relates Story of Mrs. Schenk and Her Gentleman Friend.

THE WHEELING TRIAL.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 17.—At today's session of the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with administering poison to her husband, John O. Schenk, Lundy Wilson, the Schenk chauffeur, was a witness for the state. The chauffeur said he drove Mrs. Schenk at times when a man not her husband accompanied her and was present upon occasions that both defense and state have announced would be further inquired into.

Wilson was expected to substantiate the testimony of Daniel Phillips that he had taken a number of automobile rides with Mrs. Schenk at night and that Wilson was the driver of the machine.

Tried to Bar Reporter.

When court opened an hour was consumed in discussing the presence of a newspaper correspondent in the room. Prosecuting Attorney Handlan wanted the man excluded and declared the head lines in his paper misrepresented the detective-nurse, Miss Zoecler, while she was on the stand. The correspondent was allowed to explain his position before the court and was permitted to remain.

A development of the morning was the absence of Rev. G. W. Why, the spiritualist minister Mrs. Schenk is alleged to have consulted, according to Nurse Evans, and who said Schenk would die before Christmas.

Miss Zoecler was again on the stand when the trial was resumed.

Chauffeur Makes Good.

The cross examination of nurse, Miss Zoecler developed nothing of importance and Lundy Wilson, Mrs. Schenk's chauffeur, was called to the stand. The promised sensational testimony followed. The witness said he had driven Mrs. Schenk and Dan Phillips to the country on many occasions, principally at night, and beer and sandwiches were taken on these trips.

The car was usually driven to a point near Smithfield, Ohio, the lights low, and witness dismissed until recalled by the auto horn. Wilson said Mrs. Schenk had told him her relations with Phillips were not proper. He related instances connected with the purchase of a diamond horse shoe and a route of auto rides except those specifically mentioned in direct examination. It was also brought out that John O. Schenk had been riding with Phillips and Mrs. Schenk.

W. W. Wagoner, who has been quite ill at St. Joseph's hospital for the past two weeks, is now slightly improved.

SUBMARINE BOAT SINKS TO BOTTOM

German Diver Goes Down in Bay Near Kiel With Crew of 25 Men.

RESCUE BOAT SAVES

Kiel, Germany, Jan. 17.—The German submarine "U-8" sank in the harbor today but was raised after three hours' work and the crew of 25 men rescued unharmed. The sinking was due to the accidental filling of the water tanks.

Soon after the submarine disappeared the salvage ship Vulkan, equipped with modern machinery for the raising of submerged vessels, was on the spot and gave the first successful demonstration of what she could do in the emergency for which she had been planned.

First communication with the submarine was established by a buoy telephone over which the commander of the "U-3" reported that the vessel had a 48-hour supply of oxygen and that the crew were in no immediate danger.

Divers were then sent down and placed a chain about the hull of the submarine. The chain was attached to powerful cranes built on the deck of the Vulkan and soon the salvager's power plant was in operation and the "U-3" slowly was released from her bed in the mud. Exactly three hours after the accident occurred, the periscope of the under-water warship appeared above the surface.

Prince Henry, of Prussia, was an interested spectator.

KERN NAMED FOR SENATE

In Separate Session Democrats of House and Senate Decree It.

WILL BE CHOSEN ON JOINT BALLOT

Republicans Compliment Hon. A. J. Beveridge With Their Votes.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 17.—John W. Kern was elected United States senator today on separate ballots by the two houses of the Indiana legislature. The mantle of Albert J. Beveridge, who for twelve years has represented Indiana in the upper house of the national congress, passed to the shoulders of his democratic successor at 2 o'clock this afternoon when the house finished the vote began by the senate this morning.

The senate balloted on the senatorship at 11 o'clock. The house was a witness in the senate chamber, when the vote was taken, just as the senate was a guest in the house chamber when the house registered its will. Mr. Kern received the vote of the democratic members in both branches.

Shively Made Big Speech.

Senator Bernard R. Shively, of Marion, made the nominating speech in the senate, the seconding speeches being made by Senators Milton T. McCarty, of Frankfort, William B. Carleton, of Evansville, Levi P. Harlan, of Indianapolis, Harry E. Grube, of Plymouth, and Robert E. Proctor, of Elkhart.

In the house Mr. Kern was placed in nomination by Representative Leonard

TWO SHOTS FIRED AT THE PREMIER

M. Briand, Head of Government of France, Missed by Assailant.

BYSTANDER IS HIT

Paris, Jan. 17.—The chamber of deputies was thrown into a panic today by an attempt upon the life of Premier Briand. Two revolver shots were fired upon the ministerial bench from the public gallery, but the premier was unharmed. One of the shots entered the leg of Leon Mirman, director of the department of public assistance in the ministry of the interior. The wound is not a serious one.

Would-Be Assassin Arrested.

The would-be assassin is a man named Gisloime, who was formerly clerk of the courts of Bayonne. He was pounced upon by police officers before he could use his weapon again, if he had such intention, and was hurried from the place.

M. Briand was quickly surrounded by others of the ministry and by the deputies and heartily congratulated on his escape from death.

There is no doubt that the premier was the intended victim and only the poor marksmanship of Gisloime saved the minister from death or injury.

Rose and Fired Deliberately.

Gisloime first attracted the attention of those seated near him when he rose from the seat which he occupied near the center of the balcony and pushed forward quickly to the railing. Suddenly he whipped a revolver from his pocket and before the horrified ones near him could make a move, aimed the weapon first in the general direction of the ministerial bench, then deliberately upon M. Briand and fired. The bullet is thought to have embedded itself in the woodwork near the premier's seat.

The report had scarcely died away when the second shot was fired. It is believed that it was the second one that struck M. Mirman's leg.

At First Thought it a Joke.

Laughter greeted the first shot, the deputies thinking it a joke on Deputy Razimband, radical socialist, who was making a speech, but as the second shot rang out and a thin curl of smoke waited to the dome, Mirman, sitting beside Premier Briand, toppled over, exclaiming: "I'm shot," and the mirth turned to anger. A rush was made for Gisloime, who turned to escape, and he was quickly secured.

Amid the uproar President Brisson declared the session adjourned and the deputies rushed to the corridor, where some attacked Gisloime and beat him before the cooler heads could form a guard about him.

Gisloime, after his arrest, declared he wished he had killed the premier. He is well known to the police, having but recently been liberated from an insane asylum.

ARCHITECTS IN SESSION.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—The annual convention of the American Institute of Architects opened here today with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the United States. A resume of the year's work was presented by a committee of the board of directors. The visiting delegates have made an inspection of the new forms of architecture that have appeared in San Francisco since the great fire of 1906.

CHAMP CLARK CANDID MAN

Democratic Party Merely on Probation to Show If It Can Make Good.

MAKES A SPEECH AT BALTIMORE

Says Election Result Was Republican Defeat, Not Democratic Victory.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—Declaring that the gathering of democrats was not for the purpose of achieving harmony, but for the maintenance of harmony already achieved, Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, leader of the minority in the house and assured of the speakership of the next congress, warned the democratic conference here today that much remained to be done to assure democracy a secure hold on what it already has attained.

Even more was necessary, he cautioned, to make certain of the further political gains which he declared to be due the party.

"When we analyze the figures of the last election," he said, "it will be seen that the result was not so much a victory for the democrats as a defeat for the republicans. Our success was the result largely of the stay-at-home vote. Therefore, we are really in a state of probation. The country has concluded to give us another chance to demonstrate our fitness to conduct the government after sixteen years of exclusion from power."

"Really we are in a state of probation. We hold our destiny in our own hands. We have a golden opportunity. Coupled with it are grave responsibilities. If we are equal to the opportunity, if we meet the responsibilities with wisdom, courage and patriotism, we will have a long lease of power."

Victory a Surprise.

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Clark admitted that the victory of November was a surprise to the rank and file of the democratic party. He added that with the inspiration born of victory the party had "more than an even chance of sweeping the country from sea to sea in 1912."

"This glorious result can be accomplished," he continued, "by the very simple process of carrying out religiously the promises which we made in order to win last November. Even if we were not disposed to redeem our promises as a matter of principle, when we look upon the wreck of the republican party we have a most valuable object lesson of the low state in which a great organization may fall by a failure to live up to its promises, because all those who have eyes see and having ears hear, know that the G. O. P. was brought to death's door because in 1908 it failed to do what in 1908 it promised to do. Unless we desire to share its fate we must keep our promises."

WILSON POINTS OLD WRONGS

Governor of New Jersey is Inaugurated and Makes Strong Address.

MANY REFORMS IN STATE ARE URGED

Does Not Want to Run Amuck, But Sees Things That Must Be Done.

WOODROW WILSON'S MESSAGE.

"Corporations are * * * organizations which have proven very useful, but which have for the time being slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be and that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly, but effectively, and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law."

"Our laws with regard to the relations of employer and employee * * * were framed for another age, which nobody now living remembers. New rules must be devised for their ('employees') protection, for their compensation, when injured, for their support, when disabled. "I would urge the imperative obligation of public policy and of public honesty we are under to effect such changes in the law of the state as will henceforth effectually prevent the abuse of the privilege of incorporation which has in recent years brought so much discredit upon our state. "Scrutiny and regulation ought also to be extended to corporations already operating under the license and authority of the state. "Our whole system of taxation, which is no system at all, needs overhauling from top to bottom. "Our primary laws should be extended to every elective office, and to the selection of every party committee or official. "It is estimated that most of the food supply of the people of northern New Jersey and half the food supply for New York city is kept in cold storage warehouses in Hudson county, (N. J.) awaiting the state of the market. "The result is not only to control prices, but also to endanger health. "I earnestly urge that the legislature pass some effective law of inspection and limitation to enactment."

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 17.—Governor Woodrow Wilson today assumed the duties of chief executive of New Jersey, and delivered his inaugural address. Sweeping reforms in legislation, "not the foolish ardor of too sanguine or too radical reform," the governor says, "but merely the tasks that are evident and pressing" are urged. Chief among them are the enactment of an employers' liability law providing for compensation to injured and disabled workmen the perfection and the extension of the direct primary law to all elective offices, and to party nominations; a law restricting the issuance of charters to corporations and providing for close scrutiny and regulation of existing corporations; the enactment of a conservation law and revision of the existing method of taxation. He said, in part:

Duty Never So Plain as Now.

"The opportunity of our day in the field of politics no man can mistake who can read any, even the most superficial signs of the times. We have never seen a day when duty was more plain, the task to be performed more obvious, the way in which to accomplish it more clear."

A GAIN OF ONE IN TEN YEARS

Census Gives Paulding, O., Population of 2,081 and Montpelier, O., 2,759.

MONTPELIER'S GAIN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—The thirteenth census gives Paulding, in Ohio, a population of 2,081. In 1900, a population of 1,800. In 1900, 2,080, making a gain of just one in population for the town since then. The population of Montpelier, O., in Williams county, is 2,759. This is a gain of about 40 per cent. the population given by the census of 1900 being 1,899.

Montpelier shows a larger gain than most of the other northwestern towns, the figures for which were recently given out. Van Wert increased from 6,422 to 7,157; Bowling Green from 5,172 to 5,222; Defiance fell from 7,579 in 1900 to 7,327 in 1910. The population of Tiffin is 11,548, which is an increase of 900 over 1900.

Mainard Amper, of 805 East Wayne street, has enlisted in the regular army.

OLD SUIT TAKEN OFF THE DOCKET

Had Been There Seventeen Years Without Formal Action.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Judge Carl Yaple today overruled a motion for a new trial in the suit of George W. Ewing against Louis Diether and cleared the superior court docket of a case that had been on file for seventeen years. It was filed by Judge L. M. Niede and Hon. T. E. Ellison represented Diether.

The suit was numbered 2,410, while the last number given on the docket was 12,045, indicating the number of actions that have been filed in the meantime. This suit was one of a number filed by Mr. Ewing that involved several pieces of real estate. All involved the same legal question and one was taken to the supreme court on a law point. This was never taken off the docket until it became necessary today in clearing the title to the property which is located on Harrison street between Main and Berry.

Changed Her Name to Suit.

Although Mary M. B. Dupps made no application for a change of name when she filed her suit for a divorce from Louis Dupps and no entry was made by Judge Yaple granting any change, she took the matter entirely into her own hands when she applied for a marriage license to wed Albert Dupps, her brother-in-law who caused the trouble in the family.

She didn't improve matters much. As long as she lived with her former husband the good old name of Mary fitted her very nicely and she was never known to complain that it suited her, but when she got married she picked out the bright, new, shining name of "Mae" for herself.

She also shed the Dupps end of the cognomen at the same time and inserted Shoemaker into the marriage license. Whether her marriage will be legal or not is a question that will probably not bother her much as she didn't pay much attention to the smaller details, anyhow. If her husband's story in the divorce case is true.

Mary Paid Her Taxes.

After her stuff had been carted away under an order from County Treasurer Schelman, Mary Maizey concluded that she would pay taxes amounting to $88, so she settled and paid for the hauling and her goods were restored. She said she didn't have any money.

POLICEMAN SHOT TWICE AT NEGRO

James Williams Escapes from Patrol Wagon and is Recaptured.

IS "CULLUD" ACTOR

Bailiff Dan Kintz took two shots at James Williams on Superior street between Calhoun and Harrison about 11 o'clock this morning and did nothing more harmful than to accelerate the speed of his man who was making one grand run for liberty after an escape from the patrol wagon.

Williams was arrested last night on the charge of stealing an overcoat from Louis Hall. The crime is alleged to have been committed on December 12. Patrolman Petren was driving the wagon taking the prisoners from police headquarters to the county jail. Jeff Myers was in the wagon and made his escape and no particular effort was made to get him as he can be found any time he is wanted.

The negro climbed over the front seat while the driver was watching to keep out of an open manhole and to avoid a number of bay wagons that were being weighed and did not see the prisoner until he reached the ground. Kintz gave chase and fired twice at the negro's legs. One ball struck the pavement and broke the window in a saloon but did no further damage. Williams turned south on Harrison street and was captured by a citizen who did not give his name.

The prisoner is a "cullud" actor. He is a member of a troupe that he organized here some time ago and has been away from the city since the overcoat was taken. His case was continued this morning on account of the absence of witnesses.

ACCUSED OF DESERTING WIFE.

Deputy Sheriff John Morley, Marshal Peterson and Mr. Summers have returned home, having in charge Oliver P. Hall, the young man wanted here on a charge of wife desertion and to answer to a divorce complaint. He was located Sunday at the home of an uncle in Tipton county and accompanied the officers without resistance. He seemed a very clever young chap and has his side of the story, as he always does in matters of this kind. He also seems to have plenty of friends, as he furnished a bond of $500, signed by five people, two of whom own farms in this county, and are said to be worth $10,000. He was enjoined from disposing of any of his property.

He was enjoined from disposing of any of his property.

RICHMAN KICKED A COSTLY FIGHT

Paid $50 for Breaking Up His Lady's Fine Bric-a-Brac.

CITY COURT CASES

Arthur Richman, of Kalamazoo, who says he is a married man in name only, paid a fine of $40 and costs in the city court today; Marie Fisher, of 1221 South Calhoun street, paid herself $20 to pay a fine of $10 and costs and Charles McDonald, a Marion plumber, dug up $20 more as a result of a visit to Fort Wayne by the Kalamazoo man yesterday.

Marie gives things from the shade of a black flowered hat generously proportioned as to brim. She is of the uncertain age, which ranges all the way from thirty to forty. She leans toward the latter and chews gum slowly before she answers questions.

A year ago she came here from Gas City, Indiana, and moved into a flat that Richman had purchased, all furnished, for her and took the honored position of "lady friend" to the Michiganlander.

Charles McDonald plumbs when he has time, but the fair Marie took up so much of his time that he hadn't much left for the ancient and honorable art of plumbing. Yesterday was blue Monday for Marie. She must have met a cross-eyed woman or something, because both of her "gentlemen friends" arrived the same day.

McDonald got there first and Richman could not get in until after he had kicked in the door. He was introduced to McDonald. Marie added that she intended to marry the plumber. Richman wished him luck then went out and got a jag and came back and snatched up some furniture and things. He paid $50 for it and the other two were fined on a charge of specific immorality. In the meantime the police took some notes that will probably ask just for what purpose Marie maintains her life.

Wouldn't Keep Away.

Clara Bonahoom, Alta Rahal, a sister and another Syrian, said to be the senior Bonahoom, were in the city court today on charges of trespass filed by Emma Herr, better known as Emma Mason. The arrests grew out of a legal bout of long standing. During the time that the city officials allowed her to be sold in the red light district Emma vaxed fat and paid $150 a month for one house and $100 for another. Bonahoom sought to dispossess her and the court fixed the rental at $75 and $50. Yesterday the Syrians went down and chucked Emma and the inmates of her resort out in the cold world and put an old Syrian with a gun in charge of one of the places.

This was followed by affidavits and the cases were continued in the city court until next Tuesday. In the meantime the judge wanted the Bonahoom clan to stay away, but W. C. Ryan, who appeared for them, said he wouldn't agree to it. They gave bond for $100 each and were released.

James Worden, with a wife and six children living at Gas City, got a jag that put him down and out. He was let go with instructions to get back to the family as soon as possible.

James Williams, a negro charged with stealing an overcoat, was granted a continuance until Thursday.

Ed Dittenbach, arrested under a surety of the peace warrant, was let go on an indefinite continuance.

Accounts Balanced.

A young Philadelphian who had decided that his somewhat extravagant spouse ought to keep an account of her expenditures came to her one day with a neat account book, prettily bound.

"Now, Suzanne," said he, "I want you to put down on this side of the book the money I give you for the household expenses and on the other a statement of how it goes. In a couple of weeks I'll give you another supply of money."

Suzanne took the book and promised to follow instructions.

Two weeks later hubby called for the book.

GAS SHOW OPENS THURSDAY NIGHT

First Opportunity of the Public to See Handsome Display.

GAS MEN TOMORROW

Thursday evening will be the first opportunity for the general public to see the big gas exposition which is to be held in the Arcade building in connection with the annual convention of the Indiana Gas association. The show will be open to the general public, free of charge, beginning at 7:30 o'clock on Thursday evening, and on Friday and Saturday, both afternoon and evening.

Naturally the gas men who are coming to Fort Wayne from all over Indiana as well as from adjoining states for the convention which opens at the Anthony hotel tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, are to be given the first opportunity to inspect the show, for it is the chance to reach the gas men that impelled the manufacturers of appliances to come to this city to make the display. The convention will extend over two days, Wednesday and Thursday, and in addition to the discussion of papers and the transaction of association business, members of the big organization will spend considerable time at the exposition getting in close touch with the very newest in the line of gas appliance production. Carl H. Graf, of Indianapolis, will preside at the convention sessions.

Lighting is Gorgeous.

The outside illumination placed on the Arcade building for the exposition was given its first test last evening, and the showing was a gorgeously brilliant one. The thirty-eight big arc lamps gave an illumination equal to 200,000 candle power, and the square was magnificently lighted. This feature is the suggestion of Harry Kaufman, of the Lafayette offices of the Indiana Lighting company, and it is the first time in the history of the exposition that anything in the way of elaborate outside illumination has been attempted.

A number of Fort Wayne institutions are represented in the list of some half a hundred concerns represented by displays at the exposition, and Mr. Kaufman said today that all the exhibits would be in place and connections completed by Wednesday morning. The Fort Wayne firms represented include the Indiana Lighting company, the Rolf-Martin company, Fox Brothers, Foster Furniture company, Indiana Furniture company, H. J. Ash, Pickard Houseware company, Rolf & Bro., Hattersley & Sons, Perfection Biscuit company, F. Edmunds, Minnet Electrical shop, G. E. Burley & Co., Indiana Electric company and Protective Electrical Supply company.

ENGAGE RUSSIAN ORCHESTRA.

Morning Musical Makes Important Engagement for Concert.

The Morning Musical society signed the contract today for one concert in this city by the Russian Symphony orchestra, which will be heard in the Majestic theater some time during the last of March. The exact date has not yet been decided upon. There are fifty men in the orchestra and the director, Altschauer, is one of the most famous leaders of Europe. It is probable that this concert will take the place of the annual May music festival, but it is not positive, as much will depend upon the success of having so big and important an organization as the Russian orchestra here.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

ENDED HIS LIFE BY TAKING POISON

Excessive Drink Had Robbed Him of Manhood and Made Him a Suicide Victim.

Montpelier, Ind., Jan. 17.—Edward Kirkpatrick, who a week ago tried to commit suicide by taking carbolic acid but failed in his purpose, succeeded in ending his life yesterday by the poison route. He was found lying unconscious on the lawn at the home of Andrew Johnston during the forenoon by Miss Mary Johnston, who thought he was drunk. Investigation by the doctors who were called showed that he was at the point of death and he died soon after he had been carried to his home. A bottle of alcohol containing the poison was found on his person.

How Kirkpatrick got to the Johnston yard where he was found is not exactly known. He had left home Sunday night going to Hartford City, it is presumed, and returned on the 7:20 car in the morning. He stopped at the Price saloon and asked for Price but not finding him in went away. When at the saloon he seemed to be sober and did not take anything to drink. It was but a short time later he was found dying.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick said that she was not greatly surprised at her husband's death but attributed it to drink. She said that excessive indulgence had robbed him of his mental faculties at many times past and made him abusive to his family. Kirkpatrick was 48 years of age. His widow and four children survive. His father, a respected farmer, still lives west of the city. He leaves three sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Stallenith, Baxter Springs, Kansas; Mrs. Rettie Foreman, Leeds, S. D.; and Mrs. Margaret Ricketts, this city.

NIGHT FORCE LAID OFF.

Over Production Causes Glass Factory at Marion to Retrench.

Marion, Ind., Jan. 17.—Workmen employed on the night turn at the Marion flint glass factory in North Marion were notified of an indefinite lay off when the pay checks were handed out. About 225 men and boys are affected by the change in the order, according to the statement made by the manager of the factory. It is not known how long the night force will be kept idle, and attaches of the factory were unable to offer an opinion as to when the full force would be resumed.

Although no official statement has been made of the reason for taking off the night shift, workmen say there has been an over-production of glassware and that the output at this time is greater than the demand. The factory since starting the present fire in September, has been working full force of men on both the day and night shifts.

A BIG CLASS OF ELKS.

Kendallville, Ind., Jan. 17.—The Kendallville Elks lodge is planning a big time for Wednesday night, when a large class of new members is to be taken into the order and the event is to be celebrated by a banquet and social session. The majority of the class will be from Angola, and others will be from Garrett and this city. It will be the largest class since the institution of the lodge here last May.

BOYS CAUGHT FISH WITH THEIR HANDS

Crowded Into Shallow Water by Ice
Going Out and Boys Got Fifty Fine Ones.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 17.—Russell and Earl Smith, two boys of this city, yesterday afternoon caught about fifty bass, catfish and carp in the Ed river, and they caught every one with their hands. The young lads were walking along the Vandall tracks east of the Tenth street dam, watching the ice go out. One of them saw a fish flop out of the water and land on the bank, and both ran down and caught it before it could get back into the water. It was a bass that weighed close to three pounds. There was a narrow little stretch of shallow water between the shore and the grinding cakes of ice, and looking closely, they saw that it was filled with fish. The boys went after them with their hands, and within a few minutes had a fine string of bass, carp and catfish. They continued their search in the shallow water along the shore, and before they had finished had over fifty good sized fish. Nine were bass and about half the balance were fine catfish. The rest were carp.

SAVED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Prevented Lutheran Parsonage Near Ossian From Burning.

Ossian, Ind., Jan. 17.—The parsonage of the German Lutheran church, four miles northeast of Ossian, caught fire yesterday from the furnace, and would doubtless have burned to the ground had not the children at the German school, a short distance away, discovered the fire before it gained much headway. With the teacher they rushed to the scene and the flames were extinguished before they spread through the building. The most damage from the flames was done in the basement, although the rest of the house was badly smoked.

"I suppose," began the kind lady before Mr. Husky Hasbeen got a chance to exercise his voice, "that you want to chop some wood in exchange for a square meal, don't you?"

"I'd like ter oblige yer, lady," replied the dusty traveler, "but it's bin more'n twenty years since I done anything in dat line."

"Well," said the k. l. "here's where you can practice till you get your hand in."

"Nothin' doin', lady," rejoined the hobo. "Wat I'm lookin' fer is a band-out. See?"

And the kind lady fell in a faint.

ITCHING IRRITATION

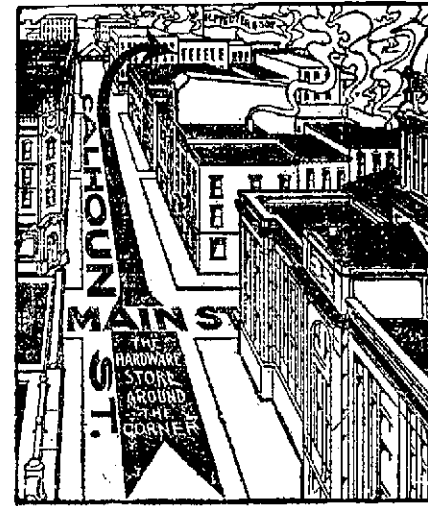

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Cured by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting greasy ointment. Try HOKARA, a pure and simple skin food, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly that it does not soil the linen.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only are minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly cured, but the worst cases of eczema or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleansed and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try HOKARA at small expense, Meyer Bros. Co. are selling a liberal sized jar at 25c and in addition guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it. Larger size 50 cents.

THE BALTIMORE CONFERENCE.

Democrats are assembled in Baltimore today to transact business under the order of good and welfare of the party. Tonight there will be a big banquet at which the good and welfare of the party will probably get some show. The idea of the conference appears to be that the democracy of the nation reinforce itself with fresh-collected wisdom against its capacity to blunder at unfortunate times and hapless seasons. There is a notion that the way to the green fields at the end of 1912 lies through more or less troublous seasons of congress. With a decisive majority in the house and the republican majority in the senate cut down to such a narrow margin that the defection of a few insurgent votes on any measure means loss of reactionary control the democratic party in congress faces more than negative responsibilities. The cost of living, the burdens of the tariff and the unfulfilled promises of downward revision put the democratic majority in the house face to face with exigencies it not opportunities. What to do when in possession of its power and in presence of its responsibilities is one of the purposes of the Baltimore gathering. Also, it may be suspected, who and what for 1912 will have its place in the informal discussions, though there has been strenuous denial that the gathering has any shadow of purpose to serve the interests of Governor Harmon. Mr. Bryan will not be there. The sponsors for the gathering have not wanted him there. Mr. Bryan understands quite well that the men mainly responsible for this conference and refreshment regard him as an undesirable adjunct to any democratic war council. But Mr. Bryan can sit tight in his boat and wait. Several million democrats remain who are

CURED TO STAY CURED

How a Fort Wayne Citizen Found Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—From urinary disorders—From any disease of the kidneys, Be cured by Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.

Fort Wayne people testify.
Here's one case of it:
Jesse Patton, R. F. D. No. 15, Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "For years I was afflicted with kidney complaint. The kidney secretions were highly colored and too frequent in passage. Often when I stooped, everything before me seemed to be whirling. My back ached intensely and I was scarcely able to attend to my work. Nothing helped me in the least until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Meyer Bros. Co.'s Drug Store. This remedy disposed of my trouble and I was thus convinced of its merits." (State ment given December 3, 1908.)

NO TROUBLE SINCE.

Mr. Patton was interviewed on July 2, 1910, and he said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected in my case has been permanent. I always deem it a pleasure to give this remedy my endorsement. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

quite ready to take his word for anything or anybody.

It has been disclosed that vote-selling on a rather astonishing scale has been the rule in Vermilion county, Ill. Vermilion county has for its seat the good city of Danville and is famous for the rich products of its coal mines. Its chief distinction, however, is as the habitat of Hon. Joseph Gurney Cannon, speaker of the national house and arch-sponsor of the standpat. The charge has been made to the grand jury and an investigation is promised. Wholesale corruption of elections by both political parties has been going on for years and the court at Danville declares it is time to let down the foot-gates and admit the moral wave that is sweeping the country. Of course, where there is vote-selling there is vote-buying and it is to be hoped the statutes of Illinois can deal more effectively with that phase of the proposition than the Indiana laws do. Vote-selling is common in many communities, as witness the disclosures made in Adams county, Ohio, and a few years ago made in two or three Indiana counties. If the grand jury at Danville is really at work on ballot crimes it will unearth something.

The further proof we have that there is and has been no food trust are the splintering crash and the dull thud and the reverberating boom with which the cold storage combine is going to pieces and icehouse grub prices are tumbling. It is said that stocks, some of which have been in refrigeration for five years are to be dumped on the market for what can be got and the big fellows, always solicitous for the welfare of the ultimate consumer, warn him that he should see to it his retailer does not attempt to maintain the schedule the trust has abandoned. Butter has dropped, eggs have dropped, poultry has dropped and the fall will continue, if the public is not the victim of false reports. Meanwhile, you will probably get some benediction of the smashup as soon as your retailer does, and then keep your eye partly on the cold storage crowd. It may be this is only a clean-up in order to start the price boosting game all over again with fresh stocks and the added advantage of having fooled the public.

If the supreme court does finally declare that the Standard Oil company can find no warrant in the federal constitution for the kind of life it has led and is leading, the Standard Oil company probably has a few well salaried lawyer gentlemen on whom it can rely to show it the way without disturbing its business, dislodging its control or seriously obstructing the regular arrival and distribution of dividends. The Standard Oil company wasn't born yesterday and, while it may die tomorrow, it will do so filled with faith in a triumphant and very prompt resurrection as soon as new papers can be drawn and lot over to Jersey.

The New York democracy seems unable to rise to the occasion. A senator trained by Tammany and foisted by Murphy is not likely to prove much better than anything New York has had for some years. William W. Sheehan is a man of ability, but he is also a man of the Tammany school of politics, and that doesn't promise much help for the newer idea that government really ought to have something to do with the public good.

Uncle Joe wisely returned to the melee and got the lump on his head renewed. It doubtless has been made entirely clear to the speaker that in the few remaining weeks of his regime the democrats and insurgent republicans can be thoroughly trusted to take care of themselves.

The actual and completed election of himself by the house in session and the senate in session and the two in joint session, while long a foregone conclusion, nevertheless will make Hon. John Worth Kern feel easier in his mind.

There is a lot more security in telling what you know to the grand jury instead of gossiping it to the neighbors. The grand jury will keep its source of information a secret and will not exaggerate.

ATTEND STATE CONVENTION.

AEROPLANE MODEL EXHIBIT.

At Public Library—Craft Constructed by Fort Wayne Boys.

Models of aeroplanes built by Fort Wayne youngsters from 12 to 16 years old, and constructed in such a manner that they would reflect credit upon the skill of an older person, are on display in the children's department of the public library and are attracting considerable interest. The department is in charge of Miss Webb, and she has resolved a promise that the aeroplane models now on display in the window of the Indiana Furniture Co. will be added to the exhibit. Two tables, well supplied with magazine and other literature pertaining to aeroplanes, have been turned over to the use of boys interested in the subject, and many are taking advantage of the opportunity afforded them to increase their knowledge.

The models on display are of various kinds of aeroplanes; among them is one built by Carl Wagner, age 16, which is a model of a Curtiss biplane, and which is equipped with all of the accessories of an up-to-date aeroplane, with the exception of the motor. The means of locomotion devised for the models consists of rubber bands twisted tight and connected with the propeller, and when these are let loose the models go through the air as gracefully as the larger machines. In addition to the model displayed by young Wagner, other models displayed are a Wright model, by E. Erickson, age 12; Blériot model, by Ross Eakin; Wright model, by H. and D. Eckles, age 10 and 12, respectively; monoplane, by Ralph D. Ross; biplane, by R. Bruner; Curtiss biplane, by Myron and William Eakin and two models of the monoplane type by Joseph Grable.

Arrangements are being made with older individuals, versed in the subject of aeroplanes, to give talks before the boys to help them increase their knowledge. Jack Irwin, the wireless operator who accompanied to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible balloon, and who is now filling a twenty weeks' contract on the lecture platform, is expected to be in Fort Wayne within a short time, and an attempt will be made to have him give a short talk, telling of his experiences in the ill fated dirigible.

complicated more easy to determine. The whole world has changed within the lifetime of men not yet in their thirties; the world of business and, therefore, the world of society and the world of politics. The organization and movement of business are new and upon a novel scale. Business has changed so rapidly that for a long time we were confused, alarmed, bewildered in a sort of terror of the things we had ourselves raised up.

"But corporations are no longer hobgoblins which have sprung at us out of some mysterious ambush, nor yet unholy inventions of rascally rich men, nor yet the cunning devices by which ingenious lawyers build up huge rights out of a multitude of small wrongs; but merely organizations of a perfectly intelligible sort which the law has licensed for the convenience of extensive business; organizations which have proved very useful but which have for the time being slipped out of the control of the very law that gave them leave to be and that can make or unmake them at pleasure. We have now to set ourselves to control them, soberly but effectively, and to bring them thoroughly within the regulation of the law."

"Employer and Employee."

"In the first place it is plain that our laws with regard to the relations of employer and employee are in many respects wholly antiquated and impossible. They were framed for another age which nobody now living remembers, which is, indeed, so remote from our life that it would be difficult for many of us to understand it if it were described to us."

"We call these questions of employer's liability and workmen's wages compensation, but these terms do not suggest quite the whole matter. There is something very new, very big and very complex about these new relations of capital and labor. A new economic society has sprung up, and we must effect a new set of adjustments. We must not pit power against weakness. The employer is generally, in our day, a powerful group of individuals, and the working man is still, under our existing law, an individual when dealing with his employer. In case of accident, for example, or of loss, or of illness, as well as in every contractual relationship. We must have a workman's compensation act which will not put upon him the burden of fighting powerful corporate employers to obtain his rights, but which will give him his rights without suit, directly, and without contest, by automatic operation of law, as if of a law of insurance."

"This is the first adjustment needed, because it affects the rights, the happiness, the lives and fortunes of the greatest number, and because it is the adjustment for which justice cries loudest."

Too Free with Corporate Charters.

"We are much too free with grants of charters to corporations in New Jersey. A corporation exists only by license of law, and the law is responsible for what it creates. It can never rightly authorize any kind of fraud or imposition. It cannot rightfully allow the setting up of a business which has no sound basis or which follows methods which in any way outrage justice or fair dealing or the principles of honest industry. The law cannot give its license to things of that kind. It thereby authenticates what it ought to forbid."

"I would urge the imperative obligation of public policy and public honesty we are under to effect such changes in the law of the state as will henceforth effectively prevent the abuse of the privilege of incorporation which has in recent years brought so much discredit upon our state. It will be necessary to regulate and restrict the issue of securities, enforce regulations with regard to bona fide capital, examine very rigorously the basis of capitalization, and to prescribe methods by which the public may be safeguarded against fraud, deception, extortion and every abuse of its confidence."

Should Investigate All Corporations.

"Such scrutiny and regulation ought not to be confined to corporations seeking charters. They ought also to be extended to corporations already operating under the license and authority of the state."

The power to originate and conduct investigations of public service corporations, regulate the rates and adjust the service of such corporations operating within the state, should be bestowed upon the New Jersey public utilities commission, the governor declares. Were the commission clothed with such power, the governor says, their rulings would serve to establish definitely double standards upon which many questions of value upon which the whole system of taxation, Governor Wilson says, "is no system at all, and needs overhauling from top to bottom."

The conservation of natural resources within the state is strongly urged.

State Primary Law.

One of the greatest needs, Governor Wilson declares, is the perfection and extension of the existing state primary law. He says:

"Some persons . . . have pointed out that with our present methods of machine nomination and our present methods of elections, which between one set of machine nominations and another, we did not get representative government at all—not least not government representative of the people, but government representative of political managers, who served their own interests and the interests of those with whom they found it profitable to establish partnerships."

"The laws in recent years adopted in the state of Oregon seem to me to point the direction which we must also take before we have completed our regeneration of a government which has survived management and so long has suffered from corruption and organized selfishness. Our primary laws, perfected, should be extended to every elective office, and to the selection of every committee or official as well, in order that the people may once for all take charge of their own affairs."

The Way to Reforms.

"We have here the undoubted sound chain and sequence of reforms; an actual direct choice by the people of the men who are to organize alike their parties and their government, and those measures which true representatives of the people will certainly favor and adopt—systematic compen-

Cold Storage Evils.

Announcing his departure from "the beaten track" of precedence, Governor Wilson calls to the attention of the legislature the maintenance and use of large cold storage warehouses in the northern section of the state. Immense quantities of meats, poultry, eggs and fish are stored and held in these plants, sometimes for years, awaiting a favorable market. Governor Wilson asserts, the "results being not only to control prices, but to endanger health." He urges the legislature to push rapidly to enactment a proper measure of inspection and of limitation of the length of time such commodities may be left in storage. He concludes:

"We are servants of the people, of the whole people. Their interest should be our constant study. We should pursue it without fear or favor. Our reward will be greater than that to be obtained in any other service. It is not the foolish ardor of the sanguine or the radical reformer that I urge upon you, but merely the facts that are evident and pressing, the things we have knowledge and guidance

Last Sunday was a memorable day for the Bethany Presbyterian church, particularly in the way of new members received into the church. With the additions received Sunday there have been sixty-four new members to the Bethany church since the close of the Chapman-Alexander evangelistic meetings. Rev. C. O. Shirey, the pastor, closed a series of evangelistic meetings at the church last Friday evening, having been assisted during their continuance by Mr. John S. NEW BANKING BILL IS SHOWN and labor, the comptroller of the currency and the governor and two deputy governors of the association.

The governor and deputy governors of the association would be appointed by the president of the United States and be removed by him for cause.

The association would be the principal fiscal agent and depository of the government and would fix from time to time the rate of exchange of discount, and eventually its notes would replace those of the national banks.

Prime commercial paper, passing up from the banks through the local associations and branches, as well as bonds of the government could be used as a basis for currency issue.

Two New Classes of Banks.

The plan contemplates also two new classes of national banks or departments of banks, to receive savings and make loans upon real estate, and also to be in effect national trust companies. National banks would be permitted to form branches only in their own immediate communities and they also could be organized for business in foreign countries.

The system of mutual support by which the association's members would meet currency emergencies is detailed at length.

In a letter to Mr. Vreeland, dated yesterday, and read at today's meeting, Senator Aldrich expresses disappointment that his lines had compelled him to forego his expectation of conferring with the members of the commission. He tenders his plan as "tentative" and as the subject for discussion and criticism.

Will Answer Business Needs.

"I, of course, do not expect," he says, "the immediate approval of the commission or that any formal action will be taken upon it. The plan suggested is a personal one that I fully believe will answer the requirements of the changed conditions. It will certainly furnish to the commercial organizations of the country who are considering this subject, a basis for criticism and discussion."

Mr. Aldrich prefaces his plan with an introduction in the course of which he says it has been his aim to suggest changes in the national banking act which will make it responsive to the demands of modern business. The study which the commission has given to this, has, I believe, led irresistibly to the conclusion that our present banking system which was adopted nearly half a century ago and has remained practically unchanged, not only fails completely under stress and in the presence of unusual demands upon its resources, but has been found inadequate and unresponsive, even under the ordinary conditions of business.

Weakness of Present System.

"The result of our law has been to create a banking system made up of a great number of isolated units, each working within a limited circle and each of necessity governed by its own immediate interests without reference to what would be for the greatest good of all. While the intelligent managers of individual banks may fully recognize the necessity of greater co-operation, they are, under the law, powerless to effect it.

"If we can so amend the present national banking act as to permit the formation of an association of all the banks of the country to meet these needs we shall have gone a long way toward solving the problem which is before us.

"I believe that the conclusions which I present herewith meet those conditions and that the organization which it is proposed to create will insure the benefits which we seek without running any risk of creating a financial institution which carrying by its own ambitious monetary interests or dominated by political influence."

The Principal Details.

In the organization of the national association, Mr. Aldrich sets out the principal details as follows:

It is proposed to charter the Reserve Association of America, which will be the principal fiscal agent of the government of the United States. The authorized capital of the Reserve association shall be approximately $300,000,000, the length of its charter shall be fifty years. The head office of the association shall be in Washington, D. C.

A national bank having a minimum capital of at least $25,000 may subscribe to an amount of capital stock of the Reserve association equal to 25 per cent of the stock of the subscribing national bank, and not less, and each of such subscribing banks shall become a member of a local association.

The earnings of the Reserve association shall be distributed in the following manner: After the payment of all expenses and taxes the stockholders shall receive 4 per cent. Further earnings shall be divided, one-half to go to the surplus of the Reserve association until that surplus shall amount to 20 per cent of the paid in capital, one-fourth to go to the government of the United States and one-fourth to the stockholders.

When the stockholders dividends shall reach 5 per cent they shall receive no additional dividend distributions. After the stockholders receive 5 per cent the earnings shall be divided, one-half to be added to the surplus of the Reserve association and one-half to go to the government. After the stockholders receive 5 per cent per annum and the surplus of the Reserve association amounts to 20 per cent of the paid in capital, all excess earnings shall go to the government.

B. Clure, of Franklin. Seconding speeches were made by Representatives H. L. McGinnis, of Martinsville, James B. Morrison, of Bluffton, John J. Keegan, of Indianapolis, Cassius W. McMullen, of Aurora, and George D. Sunkel, of Dan.

Republicans Voted for Beveridge.

The republicans cast their complimentary vote for Albert J. Beveridge. In the senate Mr. Beveridge was placed in nomination by Senator Will R. Wood, of Lafayette, who was followed by Senators Edgar Durrie, of Evansville, and Frank N. Gavit, of Whiting. In the lower branch, Representative George Williams, of Knightstown, named Mr. Beveridge as his party's choice. Seconding speeches were made by Representative Maurice McClew, of Angola, Russell K. Beagood, of Layette, Miles J. Furnas, of Winchester, and Daniel J. Troyer, of Elkhart.

Tomorrow at noon both houses of the legislature will meet in joint session in the senate chamber and canvass the vote.

In the election of Mr. Kern today, Indiana for the first time in fourteen years has two democratic representatives in the United States senate.

Shively's Speech Naming Kern.

In placing the name of Mr. Kern before the upper branch of the legislature, Senator Shively said:

"Like the true patriot he is, he draws inspiration from the past. He glories in our nation's history and tradition. He knows that men and nations judge and read their future by what has gone before. He knows that the examples set and the principles won and lost by those battle scarred heroes who unfurled the blood stained banner of our union are today the beacon lights that are steering the old ship of state into a haven of eternal peace and refuge. Yes, and he believes in our nation's future, optimistic, he beholds the dawn of a brighter era, he sees his nation's opportunities, he knows her possibilities, for he has faith in her citizenship, God's chosen people. Let us say he inherits this because his heart is intensely American."

"But why eulogize him? For years he has been a private on the firing line, an unassuming knight in the midst of conflict; today we do not seek to crown him but rather to honor him with a position that is the envy of kings and monarchs."

Gentlemen, it gives me pleasure to place in nomination our candidate, John W. Kern."

Senator Wood's Speech.

In placing Senator Beveridge in nomination in the senate Senator Will A. Wood, of Lafayette, spoke as follows:

"On behalf of the republican members of this body, I nominate for United States senator Albert J. Beveridge."

"Twelve years ago the state of Indiana sent to the United States senate as a member of that august body a young man who was then but little known beyond the confines of the state."

"He won his preferment then by sheer force of intellect, untarnished character and indomitable will. His election was not tainted by bribery or suspicion of bribery. He entered upon his duties as a United States senator as a slave of no man or set of men, and the only master that he has ever acknowledged is the people of the state and of the nation, whose untiring servant he has ever been."

"From that day to this he has stood as one of the peers in that body, world famed for its great leaders. There has not been a statute of importance to the whole people, enacted by congress in the last twelve years but what has received the beneficial touch of his creative genius. Fearlessly he has fought the battle of the people against greed and graft."

would do well not to follow its bad example."

Preparing Way to Tariff Revision.

Representing the imputation that the democratic party was a party of negotiation, Mr. Clark pointed out that Thursday of the present week would see the democrats of the house in conference in Washington to select the democratic members of the ways and means committee. This accomplished, he said, the members would proceed to the consideration of the tariff and when the next congress convened there would be ready a systematic and thoroughly considered plan for revision.

There are two ways of revising the tariff," he continued. "One by a general bill, the other by particular bills for particular schedules, or even particular bills for particular items. The consensus of opinion among democrats seems to be that the latter is the preferable method and that we should proceed to revise it by separate bills, taking the most obnoxious schedules first."

There is to be no drastic or ill-advised tinkering with the tariff laws, Mr. Clark assured his hearers, and he referred sharply to criticism that any such plan was in contemplation.

No Desire to Hurt Any Interest.

"No sane man desires to injure any legitimate business interest," he said, "and all talk to the effect that anybody desires to injure legitimate business is the wicked, revengeful and reckless utterances of the stand-patters who, having been thrown out of reason of their own sine of omission and commission, are desperately anxious to get in again."

To those who understand something of the tariff question it is perfectly clear that it requires a vast amount of work to prepare for a wise and systematic and reasonable revision of the tariff and that the same amount of preparation and information is necessary whether the revision is to be accomplished by one general bill or through separate bills for separate schedules; for at last a general bill would be practically the sum total of the separate bills."

Economy in the conduct of the public business was another anti-campaign promise that the party would carry out, Mr. Clark averred.

Admits a Difficulty.

"The curtailment of appropriations," he acknowledged, "will prove perhaps as difficult as the reduction of the tariff, but that both will be accomplished there can be little doubt, for

This stunning fur coat made of so many skins the average woman will find exceedingly becoming, and most comfortable on cold days. The garment is made on attractive lines, another desirable feature.

HOMEMADE TRAYS.

Delightful little home-made trays can be fashioned from ribbon, brocade and small pieces of silk. Following this idea I saw recently an oblong tray that looked as though it might have been originally a small picture. Of course the photograph had been removed and a bright piece of cretonne substituted under the glass. The frame was black wood and small brass handles (standings) were screwed one on each end of the tray.

A pretty pin tray or catchall can be made by winding two small embroidery hoops with ribbon. Then a pretty piece of cretonne, brocade or wide flowered ribbon stretched across the smaller hoop and the longer one slipped over. A strip of narrow calicoon is a pretty finish for the edge of such a tray.

Special dancing party to-night.

Seven-Piece Orchestra.

SATIN STITCH.

In working satin never use double silk or cotton. Doubling crosses the "lie" of the two threads, and therefore an even stitch cannot be secured and the work seems rough and coarse. If the work absolutely requires a double thickness, draw two threads together from the skein and thread them at the same time through the eye of the needle. This, however, is possible only in the finer numbers of cotton or silk.

A SOCIAL CARD OR NOTE DEMANDS ANSWER.

If a Woman Receives a Note from an Acquaintance She Must Reply by Writing a Note—If a Card is Received a Card Must Be Used in Answering.

A communication or gift received by a person in social life must be acknowledged. This is a rule so emphatic that it has no exceptions. And equally is it the rule that, if the communication be a card or note, it must be responded to in precisely the same form. Acting upon this no woman need fear making a mistake in this branch of her social duties.

A visiting card, slight as it is, should not be ignored unless it bears the letters "P. P. C." In that instance it is an answer to courtesies received, as well as an announcement of departure, and therefore might be said to close communication.

A receipt of a card following an event of importance to the family requires a card in return. For example, after a birth or death, or other occasions less momentous, it is not uncommon for friends to post visiting cards as indicating that they are aware of the happening. Sometimes merely a word or line is written on the card, as "Condolences," "Felicitations," according to the nature of the event. The return card, which should be sent within a couple of days, may

ETIQUETTE GOVERNING "AT HOMES"

Accepting Hospitality of an "Afternoon Tea" Does Not Necessitate a Call Upon the Hostess.

There seems to be uncertainty in the minds of many women as to whether or not they should call after accepting the hospitality of an afternoon tea. This is a question affected largely by circumstances. If the tea is distinctly an "at home," a woman is not expected to call afterward, for the reception is literally being "at home" to receive all persons on a visiting last, and in the weeks that follow the hostess goes about and calls on all those who came on her day or who sent their cards.

If a tea is given for some one individual or for a guest of honor, then a woman accepting such invitations should make a tea call within a week afterward, just as she would for a dinner, or in returning a first call.

Never stay away from a tea because you think you will not know none but your hostess. You never can tell whom you may meet, and even if you find yourself among strangers you can with perfect propriety make yourself at home. If you are alone and do not find friends in the room, pass out to the dining room and ask anyone of those pouring to give you a cup of tea or a cup of chocolate, as you prefer. They will not think you rude because you make this request. On the contrary, they will like it, for they are there to help dispense hospitality and they will at once talk to you so that you will no longer feel strange and alone. After you have drunk your tea thank the woman or girl who gave it to you and say "good by" to her as if she were your friend. Never leave the house without saying good by to your hostess, no matter how great the crowd about her may be. When you enter the house and greet your hostess, do not stay too long talking to her, for this is monopolizing her when others are arriving, and each guest has equal claim on her attention.

When you cannot attend a tea to which you have been invited it is most important that you send your cards and have them arrive at the proper moment. They should be received by the hostess on the morning of the tea. This gives her an idea whom not to expect.

Etiquette permits you to send your cards by a friend or a member of your family who may be going. Cards sent in this way are left in a receptacle provided for them, but it is really better form to send them by mail or messenger in the morning. If you are married you of course send or leave, when you go to the tea yourself, your husband's card with your own. One of his for the hostess, one for her husband, if she is married, and one for each male member of the family if she has sons or brothers living with her.

If there is a guest of honor at the tea you leave your husband's card for her also, as well as one of your's.

It is possible to keep lemons almost indefinitely in all weather by putting them in a jar of water with a lid. One must change the water once a week if the lemons are to be kept longer. But one will find them as firm and juicy as when fresh.

If table linen is stained with fruit the stains can be removed by stretching the piece of linen across a basin and pouring boiling water from the kettle in a thin, steady stream directly on the spot. Then wring out the piece of linen and pour water on the reverse.

USEFUL HINT.

A small tablet and pencil are a great convenience in the kitchen. When you think of a needed article, write it down immediately. Always have a clock, a sharp pair of shears and a pair of scales in the kitchen. Don't fail to have a strainer in your sink. Once a week place a cup of coarse salt on the drain and pour a kettle of boiling water over the salt. This will prevent the sink's becoming clogged.

A CROCHETED DOILY

A square doily in crochet is here illustrated. It has a flat ground with a design of a small jug in the center in treble stitch, and a pretty border in loop design. This doily is easily worked backward and forward, then three rows for the border are worked round the square.

Crochet cotton No. 22 is used, and a crochet hook No. 4.

First Row—Work 8 ch., 1 tr. in the ninth stitch from the needle, then 2 ch., miss two stitches. 1 tr. to end of row, making twenty-seven squares, and taking up two threads throughout the work.

Second Row—Turn always with 5 ch., 1 tr. on the second tr., then 2 ch., 1 tr. on a tr. to end of row, the last tr. of this row being in the third ch. of the turn.

Third Row—Work eleven squares, repeat 2 tr. under two ch. and 1 tr. on a tr. eight times; work 5 squares.

Fourth Row—Work 8 squares, 1 ch., miss two tr., 19 tr. in nineteen tr., 12 squares.

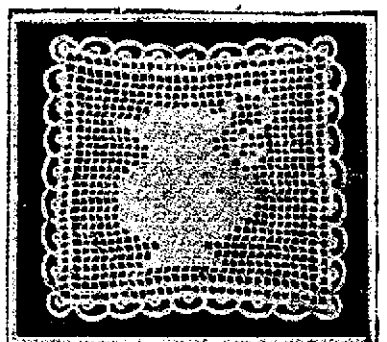

Fifth Row—Work 13 squares, 13 tr., 10 squares.

Sixth Row—Work 8 squares, 25 tr., 11 squares.

Then continue to work the remaining rows; form the jug design from the illustration, then two rows of plain squares complete the square.

The Border. First Row—Do not turn, but work along the left side first. Work 3 d. under the last tr. made, then 3 d. in each square on all four sides with 6 d. in each corner loop. Finish this row with a slip-stitch in the first d. of this row.

Second Row—To be worked over the first row, 5 ch., 1 tr. in the third stitch, then 2 ch., miss two stitches, 1 tr. to the corner. In each corner stitch work 1 tr., 5 ch., 1 tr. in same corner stitch. Finish this row with a slip-stitch in the third of five ch.

Third Row—Put the ball of cotton through the stitch on the needle and draw it up tight. Bring the cotton through the second square and work 1 ch., keeping the work flat and even. 3 d. in this second square, 3 d. in the next, 4 ch., join back to third stitch, 5 d. in this small loop, 3 d. in the next square, 1 d. in the next, 14 ch., join to first d. of this row, 20 d. in this loop, "1 d. to fill the last square, 3 d. in the next, 3 d. in the next, 4 ch., join back to third stitch, 5 d. in this small loop, 3 d. in the next, 1 d. in the next, 11 ch., join to third stitch from the end of the first big loop, 16 d. in this loop, repeat from * to next corner; 4 d. in corner loop, 4 ch., join back to third stitch, 5 d., 2 d. in corner loop, 1 d. in the next, 14 ch., join back to end of last loop, 20 d. in this loop. UPHELD DRAMATIC ART.

Frank T. Baker, of Indianapolis, Reads Interesting Essay to Fort-nightly Club.

An essay, valuable for its able and comprehensive presentation of the worth of dramatic art and the upholding of the presentation of the drama, was read last night before the Fort-nightly club and guests, at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Porter, by Frank T. Baker. Mr. Baker is dramatic critic for the Indianapolis News, and during the evening stated that in the rendition of his duty, he writes always of a play and its presentation what seems to him to be the truth; and that if a play is not good he says so.

Mr. Baker declared that in his opinion the public creates the demand for the character of plays produced and that public taste is responsible for the success of plays that are objectionable either in text or in their corruption of the minds of many who see them. He referred to the taste of many people to see any performance that was considered sensational and questionable to the extent of packing the theaters in which such performances are given, while a play known to be uplifting and ennobling often failed to swell the box office receipts to the amount of great financial success, because of the apathy of many good people concerning even good plays.

Mr. Baker made a distinction between the immoral play, and the corrupting one and said the playwright must present the truth of whatever he is depicting whether it be good or bad, moral or immoral, beautiful or ugly, else he fails in his efforts to add to dramatic art. While the immoral play is usually a crime against society, the moral play may be a crime against dramatic art, because it has neither dramatic beauty nor moral force. The continual change in the progress of the world has been kept up by the playwright, and plays of today must appeal to the world of the present to appeal to the world of the future.

The attitude of the church towards the theater has been modified, but yet is one which the essayist deplored, because he looks upon the theater as one of the greatest forms of education. Mr. Baker's enthusiasm goes so far as to lead him to believe that dramatic art should be included in the curriculum of public schools along with drawing and music. Mr. Baker cleverly injected illustration and anecdote in his essay which he read remarkably well and which was received with many evidences of pleasure by the audience.

Golden Bread.

Cut some slices of bread an inch thick, then cut them into rounds two inches in diameter with a cutter. Having made twelve or fifteen of these, simmer three-quarters of a pint of milk for a quarter of an hour with one tablespoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt, an inch of vanilla, or a tablespoonful of grated lemon rind. Beat up the yolk of an egg with two tablespoonfuls of cold milk in a bowl, strain the hot milk to them, and stir well together. Put in the pieces of bread, turn them over to soak evenly, lift them out, soft but unbroken, and drain them. Beat up a whole egg, dip the pieces of bread in it, toss in fine bread crumbs, and fry in plenty of smoking hot fat. Drain, sprinkle with sugar, and serve very hot.

Vermicelli Pudding.

In a double boiler scald one quart of milk and add to it four ounces of vermicelli, broken in bits. Cook for twenty minutes, add three-quarters of a cupful of granulated sugar and the yolks of four eggs. Stir until the mixture thickens, take from the fire and set aside until partly cooled. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and stir them gently into the mixture with one teaspoonful of vanilla. Butter small individual molds, fill them two-thirds full, set in a pan of hot water and bake for forty minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve with cream or any liquid pudding sauce.

A NEW KIND OF EXPLOSIVE.

An interesting article in the current Harper's Weekly recounts the surprising fact that for many years it has been known that various forms of dust, when mingled with air in certain proportions, are capable of producing destructive explosions when brought into contact with flame. This danger sometimes exists in flour mills, an instance being the explosion of three flour mills in Minneapolis in 1878. It was then demonstrated, by experiment, that two ounces of flour in two cubic feet of confined air, ignited, would cause a violent explosion, and it was calculated that the contents of a flour sack distributed through 4,000 cubic feet of air would cause an explosion capable of throwing a weight of 2,500 tons to a height of 100 feet. An instance is known where sugar dust in a confectionery factory caused an explosion, and in another case dry soap dust proved equally dangerous.

WOULD KEEP WORK ON LOFTY PLANE

Mr. Powell Says Life Insurance Man Does Real Public Service.

AGENTS AT BANQUET

Declaring that the true life insurance man is actuated in his work not by the mere mercenary motive of earning commissions, but that he is impelled by the consciousness that he is doing a distinct and beneficial public service, Henry J. Powell, of Louisville, Ky., president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, urged the keeping of the life insurance profession upon the highest plane in his address before the Northern Indiana Life Underwriters' association in its annual banquet Monday evening at the Anthony hotel.

Some seventy-five insurance men, with a sprinkling of doctors, lawyers, bankers and newspaper men, were gathered about the board in the banquet hall of the hotel where Charles E. Fitch presided as toastmaster, and the occasion was a delightful one. The menu was excellent. Young's orchestra played for the dinner, and the speakers, in addition to Mr. Powell, included Judge R. K. Erwin, Charles McCulloch, Judge Carl Yapple and Ex-Congressman C. C. Gilhams. Following the responses, President C. W. Orr took charge of a brief business session, in which he expressed the gratification of the association at the gathering and the interest, and announced the receipt of eighteen applications for membership. These, he said, he desired to offer to Mr. Powell as a recognition of his kindness and courtesy in accepting the invitation of the local association to come to Fort Wayne.

Judge Erwin first speaker. W. P. Cooper, who was to have presided as toastmaster, was unable to attend on account of the death of a relative, but C. E. Fitch, who had been pressed into service on short notice, filled the toastmaster's chair with grace and tact.

Judge R. K. Erwin, who was the first speaker of the evening, congratulated the insurance men upon the fact that the business had risen in dignity and had come to be accorded its proper place as a beneficent necessity of modern times. The man who is now seen in the company of a life insurance man, said Judge Erwin, is no longer looked upon with suspicion for that reason. He spoke of the comforting reflection of the man who is carrying life insurance and who knows that in the event of his death his loved ones are in a measure at least provided for, and said it had come to be regarded as a duty to make provision of this character. The development of the life insurance idea, Judge Erwin said, had been a distinct service to mankind.

It indicates thrift. Charles McCulloch, who was announced to speak on "Life Insurance from the Viewpoint of a Banker," said

WAS GUEST OF HONOR AT FORT WAYNE BANQUET OF LIFE INSURANCE MEN.

HENRY J. POWELL,

President National Association of Life Underwriters.

It had always been a gratification in his own case to reflect that he had made a purchase of life insurance early, and that he perhaps had one of the oldest policies in Fort Wayne. It is not so good a policy as those issued today, and has none of the modern improvements, but still the speaker treasured it. The banker, he said, is always more favorably inclined to the man who has been thoughtful enough to provide himself with life insurance. It indicates thrift, stability and determination.

Judge Carl Yapple, of the superior court, cited life insurance as one of the indications that humanity is gradually giving itself more concern regarding the welfare of its fellows, and coming to recognize more and more the rights and claims of others to our consideration. His talk was a forceful plea for fellowship, for a realization of human brotherhood, and for the development of a purpose higher and nobler than mere greed.

Ex-Congressman C. C. Gilhams declared the life insurance profession developed the stern stuff in men. "It takes courage for a man to go out and sell life insurance," said Mr. Gilhams. "It is not child's play, and the man who can do it has something in him. And the man who buys life insurance thereby demonstrates that he has a purpose in life—a determination that will make him a power and will assist him along the road to success."

He urged organization. When Mr. Powell was introduced he observed that so many good things had been said of life insurance by other speakers he purposed devoting his own remarks to the subject of organization, and through the entire course of his very charming talk Mr. Powell urged the extension of association membership. The president is a scholarly southern gentleman, a trained and fluent speaker with a delightfully modulated voice of infinite charm. His talk was illustrated with a rich collection of southern stories told in inimitable fashion.

Mr. Powell's plea was for the highest ideal in the life insurance profession. He referred to President Taft's statement that he had never read the terms of his life insurance policies, and this, Mr. Powell said, was a high tribute to the life insurance agent because it disclosed the president's confidence in the agent who sold him the insurance. He scored the rebater and the "twister," and advised agents not to worry about what some other fellow is doing, but rather worry about what you are not doing yourself. "Don't talk about the other fellow," continued Mr. Powell, "but instead look yourself over. Judge people in the right light. If you look for good in a man you can find it, and if you look for the bad part of him your search will also be fruitful. If you have trouble, throw it off for you cannot sell insurance if you carry your troubles about with you. Don't worry because the last was a rejection. Don't go into the business for commissions alone, but grasp the fact that in selling life insurance you are doing a distinct public service. And remember that the public judges the company by the man behind the rate-book."

Luncheon at Noon. In connection with the underwriters' meeting, Manager Charles W. Orr at noon today entertained his Acting representatives in this district at a luncheon at the Commercial club. Mr. Orr's guests included Homer L. Cox, Ernest T. Fristoe, Albert Canfield, Thomas E. Morrison, James J. Pittell, E. G. McKinney, E. S. Furibut, A. W. Young and H. B. Tilmann.

LEAGUE MEETING IS UNCERTAINTY

President's Illness Will Cause Postponement of Gathering.

TIEMAN AN INVENTOR

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 17.—Great uncertainty surrounds the date of the next meeting of the directors of the Central league as it is not likely that the tentative arrangement made in Chicago can be carried out on account of the continued illness of Dr. F. R. Carson, president of the organization.

When the fall gathering was held in connection with the national association gathering at Chicago the magnates decided to hold but one more meeting before the opening of the season and it was agreed that two or three days would be spent at this season and time enough allowed to look over and adopt the schedule and finish up all of the business.

The last Monday in January or the first in February was suggested and with this understanding the Chicago meeting adjourned. Dr. Carson has been a very sick man and it is not likely that he will be able to attend to his duties for several weeks. It is also improbable that the directors will meet without him and this spells postponement.

This will be a disappointment to Bert Annis, who has expected to dispose of some of his surplus stock of players left over from the Grand Rapids sale. He has some men that he thinks can be used in the Central league and he wanted to place them in the market at the meeting. Green Bay is after Fletcher Larsen and may land him.

Tiemann is inventor. George Tiemann has been called "Heine" so long that half the Central league players think that is his real name. He has entered the field of invention and will offer a lubricating oil that he thinks will make him rich. He has been able to produce an oil for lubrication, which is a much better one than the quality a little will do the work of so much more of the ordinary kind, that the Dutchman considers his fortune just made.

With his fortune, everyone will be happy with the popular backstop, but if "Heine" decides to retire from baseball, he will need of a catcher who will be a mighty sweet backstop.

Manager Ed Smith has not determined to try Nick Kahl at third base to fill the place left vacant by Eddie Wheeler. This is Kahl's regular position and he is said to be a good man for the job.

He has played under great disadvantage since he has been in the Central league and is not as popular as he might be on the circuit. He has several years of good baseball left in him, but conditions at Grand Rapids while he was a member of the team were not satisfactory to him and he became indifferent.

There was a marked friction between him and Bert Annis, but it is believed that with a hustling combination Kahl will come back and make a valuable infielder for the Grand Rapids club. He has this opinion and will give him a good show to make good.

SHRYOCK STARTS SEARCH FOR MEN

Will Visit Dr. Carson if the President is Able to Receive Him.

THINGS LOOKING UP

Zanesville, O., Jan. 17.—President C. Shryock, of the Central league, has come to Chicago in search of players for the team and if Dr. Carson is able to receive him he will call upon the league president while he is away.

The president of the league is always in touch with players that are to be disposed of and he may call Mr. Shryock to see him. It is not likely that any will be purchased just at this time.

The question of a manager for 1934 remains unsettled and although Roy Montgomery is conceded to be the leader in the race a dark horse may come in and finish in front. The directors do not want to buy any players until they have a manager who can pass upon the merits of the men in view.

Some of the old Grand Rapids players may be obtained but local sentiment is against such a move. Members of the Stag outfit were not popular on the circuit. They were looked upon as old and indifferent and this makes them undesirable, as local outcrops had much rather have new club youngsters on the new club.

During the past few days the directors of the Baseball company took a much needed rest in their campaign for funds. Beginning today the subscription committee will start out again and take up the work of plugging up the guarantee fund, which is now over $7,000.

George (Alfalfa) came forward Saturday and added $25 to the subscription. The entire amount is now over $7,000 and there are still quite a number of patrons of the game to be heard from.

SUGGESTING NEW NAME.

Newspapers Conducting Campaign for "Grand Rapids Team."

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 17.—Dr. Harley Parker wants a new name for his team and the local newspapers are conducting a campaign to secure one. A season ticket is to be donated to the person selecting the most acceptable.

Pugilists Train for Ring in Fine Church Building

REV. JOHN HOWARD MELLISH

JOE COSTER

New York, Jan. 17.—The Trinity club, of Brooklyn, child of the aristocratic Holy Trinity parish, one of the oldest and wealthiest in the Heights, is facing a big problem, being to prevent professional pugilists from using for training quarters the club's gymnasium, located in what once was the church's Sunday school room, back of the pulpit.

More than a dozen fighters, including some of the best known local professionals, who box in the star bouts before New York clubs, are daily engaged in getting themselves into condition at the club, which, outside of the gymnasium, was once the home of the late Rev. Dr. Charles H. Hall, Holy Trinity's pastor, and now is a memorial to that distinguished churchman in intimate friend of Henry Ward Beecher.

The latest of the prominent fighters to get himself into winning condition in the club, which, outside of the gymnasium, was once the home of the late Rev. Dr. Charles H. Hall, Holy Trinity's pastor, and now is a memorial to that distinguished churchman in intimate friend of Henry Ward Beecher.

Sporting News in Tablets

Charles Babb, deposed manager of the Memphis team, has signed with the Norfolk club of the Virginia State league.

Outfielder Belden, Catcher Shaw and Pitcher Durham, former Central league players, will play with the Wichita, Kan., team next year.

Charles Heiler, of Tom Lynch's staff of national league umpires, has been engaged to coach the baseball team of the University of Virginia, where Heiler is a second year law man.

President Stanley Robinson, of the Cardinals, says that if Bresnahan is able to land the team in the first division this season he will build up to date plant with steel and concrete stands.

Billy Bergen, veteran National league catcher and one of the greatest throwers that ever donned a pad, is said to be sought by Bresnahan for the Cardinals.

Football at Princeton last season, according to a report just issued by the general treasurer of the athletic association, gathered in the tidy sum of $42,588, with disbursements which left a balance of $18,328 in the treasury.

If Hot Springs, Ark., succeeds in keeping on the bid, it will likely become the training headquarters of a number of the major and big minor league teams. In the past, the Arkansas resort has offered too many temptations to baseball players to keep down a major league.

William Pressy, star pitcher of the Kewanee Central association team for the last three seasons, has been sold to the Pirates for $1,000. Pressy is built on lanky lines, and his effectiveness has been due to mastering Christy Mathewson's famous fadeaway delivery.

Pitcher Joe Wood has signed a contract with the Red Sox for next season. John I. Taylor was not to sign with the Evansville team of the Central league, but chose to go to Adrian because Angelo Grant would not state the salary Kyle was to receive.

Lou Criger, of Young's old battery pal, may coach Harvard university baseball team next spring. Criger is at present the property of the New York Nationals. He has been offered a big salary by the eastern school athletic authorities, and it is thought he will accept the position.

Umpire Owens, of the American association, draws the largest salary of any minor league official in the country. In fact, Owens' salary is much larger than that of a majority of the major league arbiters.

New York, Jan. 17.—It is practically certain that the Giants will make no trades of any kind before the opening of the coming season. McGraw has had many offers of players, but unless they show him something away above the ordinary there is no chance of his making a trade. He is perfectly willing to stand pat. The Giants led all the clubs in hitting last season, and it would be pretty hard to find a new fellow who could hit it on any of the present crew. The worst fielder at third of the lot in hitting last season, and it would be pretty hard to find a new fellow who could hit it on any of the present crew. GROESCHOW WILL SEEK STAFF JOB

Thinks He Has the Experience and Knowledge to Make a Success.

WILL WRITE CARSON

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 17.—That William F. "Cuppy" Groeschow will become a Central league umpire is practically conceded, as the former Tot manager has announced he will make an application for the berth and President Carson has announced that he will give him a trial.

Just how long he will stick depends entirely upon his ability to handle the players. While sentiment will probably prompt the president to give him a chance it is not likely that he will get on the field in character of the game the injured ball player must rely upon his own ability.

Baseball patrons are queer. They look upon umpires as a common enemy. I certainly appreciate all favors and help me in obtaining a berth in the Central league. I will also write Dr. Carson in the near future, asking him for an appointment on his staff. It is a bit hard for me to write letters, as I have to do it between plays. Will write more later, so with many thanks to all friends and for all favors in the past and present.

PAPUANS MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

The Husband Keeps a Separate Club For Each Wife.

(Wide World.)

The marriage customs of the Papuans are somewhat similar to those of many other savage races. The ceremony is largely a matter of purchase. The men marry when they are about 18 years of age, and the girls at 14 or even earlier. One of the girls I met carrying a baby was, so far as I could find out, under 13 years of age; and, like other inhabitants of tropical countries, the Papuan females mature very early in life. When a young man desires to get married he visits the father of his prospective bride and puts forward his personal belongings as an inducement to the father to consent to the union. Wealth is reckoned by many curious things in this region, where, one might almost say, no one owns anything. Furniture, money, clothes—everything which the civilized races of the earth count their possessions—are nonexistent. If a man has a gun he is a great personage, and can demand anything, but besides their bows and arrows and spears, most of the Papuans have very little. Even agricultural produce is scarce, the only cultivation undertaken being on a very primitive scale. A little clearing is made by both men and women, and the women then grow bananas and sweet potatoes. The men are always armed and when the women go to the patch to attend their crops or gather the produce, the men go with them as protection. The women, however, do the work.

Many families have a bundle of ancient Portuguese cloth, centuries old, and when a young man is seeking a bride one of these heirlooms is generally part of the "deal." The youth and the girl's father haggle over the marriage until eventually they agree in terms, and then the thing is done. The men are not limited to one wife, and once a girl is married she is subject to her husband in everything, and is practically his slave. In another part of New Guinea I remember a distinctly strong confirmation of the custom which places a woman at the entire mercy of her husband. At one house I visited I saw standing outside the doorway three huge stone clubs, each large enough to fell a bullock. On making inquiries I found that they tallied with the number of wives owning allegiance to the householder; the clubs were used by the man to beat his wives with if they annoyed him. The queerest part of it was that, while the women seemed to raise no objection to being flogged unmercifully by their lord and master, they would not be beaten with the same weapon as that used on another woman; so the natives kept a separate club for each wife!

A RELIABLE COUGH MEDICINE

Is a valuable family friend. Foley's Honey and Tar fulfills this condition exactly. Mrs. Charles Kline, No. 8th St., Easton, Pa., states: "Several members of my family have been cured of bad coughs and colds by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar and I am never without a bottle in the house. It soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure and do not hesitate to recommend it highly." For in gripe, coughs and stuffy colds, for children and grown persons and for delicate people use only Foley's Honey and Tar. Contains no opiates. Dreier Drug Co.

TOO MUCH ROPE.

A boy and a dog met. Just how this came about is of no importance, for boys and dogs are often companions. This boy had a long piece of rope tied around this dog's neck to serve the purpose of a collar and chain. At first the boy was leading the dog in a quiet manner. But the dog grew restless and began to tug and pull at the rope. The boy gave the dog all the rope he had, and then things changed. Instead of the boy's leading the dog, the dog began to lead, the boy following the dog as he darted around the corner of the building. The dog had the boy on the run. I laughed at the boy's predicament. There are other companionships than those formed by boys and dogs. We form companionships between our habits and ourselves. We think we are leaders in the party—and we may be. But there are times when our habits refuse to be satisfied with the liberty we allow them, and they become restless. They do not work as strenuously as did the dog, but they pull for more rope just the same.—Baptist Union.

KILL MORE THAN WILD BEASTS

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malaria and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c at all druggists.

A CHRISTIAN.

A Christian is to love all men, even the worst of heathens and of unbelievers, his own enemies and the enemies of God; whoever they are, he is to wish them well and pray for them always, and when they come in his way to do them as much good as he can. But towards those who are Christians, like himself, he owes something more than this. He must love them with somewhat of that partial kindness which all men naturally feel toward their brethren and near relations. He must not wait till the opportunity of doing good to them presents itself, but must go out of his way to find it; must make it one of the chief businesses and employments of his life to advance their interests always, especially that interest which the great Father of the family he knows has most at heart—the holiness and salvation of their immortal souls.—Kehle.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY REMEDY—AN APPRECIATION.

L. McConnell, Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of Kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken and shall always have my endorsement." Dreier Drug Co.

ON HIMSELF.

A magazine editor was praising the popular novelist, Mrs. Humphrey Ward.

"She deserves her fame," said the editor warmly. "Nobody begrudges her her fame except possibly her husband."

"Mr. Humphrey Ward, you know was a well-known writer till his wife sprung up. She has put him in the shade completely. He sits in the shadow with good nature. He even jokes about it. Once, when I was visiting the pretty Old World mansion of the Wards to see about a new novel for my magazine, one of the children said to my host:

ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrison, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

THE KAISER'S PALACES.

The number of the Kaiser's palaces is largely due to the fact that the Prussian monarchy has absorbed many minor German states, including the kingdom of Hanover, the Duchy of Nassau, and the electorate of Hesse-Cassel. All the palaces and castles of the rulers of these states thus passed into the possession of the reigning house of Prussia, as it was considered injudicious either to destroy or to sell them, for fear of impairing the popularity of Hohenzollern rule. Thus it is that the emperor is burdened with the possession of more than three score residences, some of which he has never even seen, and many of which are in-tally unsuited for royal habitation. Although their maintenance entails a heavy drain upon his exchequer, they cannot, for political reasons, be either sold or leased.

One Way of Saving a Baby—Free to Try

The mother does not live who would not do all in her power to keep her child healthy, but often she does not know how. So when a doctor of standing points the way all can afford to listen.

It is an accepted fact that nine out of ten of the troubles of infants and children is intestinal. You notice it by the fact that the child is constipated, it belches, is peevish and cries. Don't give a remedy that contains an opiate, because the child will get in the habit of needing it, and don't become alarmed and run at once for a doctor.

Try a scientific laxative first. Give a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the remedy that is intended for the use of children. It is mild, gentle and non-gripping. The remedy is absolutely pure and is guaranteed in every particular. Mrs. Toomey of Evansville, Pa., and Mrs. Fred Crooms of Alanson, Mich., never give their children anything else. These are only a few among thousands of women.

You can buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of any nearby druggist, for they have all sold it for a generation, but if you want to test it on your child first send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will cheerfully send you a free sample bottle.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Nickel Plate Pays Tribute to Retiring Railway Associate.

Harry Pearl Graham, aged twenty-six years, a brakeman in the employ of the Pennsylvania company, was instantly killed at Valparaiso at 9:30 o'clock last night. He was on what the railway men call the "owl run," the duties of which are to take coal to the Wabash dock, do the switching at Valparaiso and Hobart at night and other duties which may arise, his conductor being J. T. Jordan. Last night the crew was switching cars at Valparaiso and while riding one of them, Brakeman Graham lost his hold and fell and the car passed over him, crushing out his life. The remains were turned over to the coroner, who viewed them and then allowed them to be sent to the former home of the dead man in Ohio. Brakeman Graham was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Graham, farmers, who reside near Upper Sandusky, Ohio. He was born on the farm July 16, 1884, and was twenty-six years and six months old. He began work on the road August 1, 1910, as a brakeman, but had been transferred to firing arrangements for that change having been made. While in this city the young man made his home with a cousin, Frank Cole, who resides at 2823 Euclid avenue.
